Few among the companions of the Conqueror were so splendidly rewarded as was Gilbert de Gant, who held 172 English manors, and became baron of Folkingham in England. Gilbert, with William Malet and Robert Fitz Richard, followed the Conqueror on his expedition to the north of England in 1068 and took charge of the conquered city of York, with it's new Norman garrison. In the following year they were in command of the city when the Danes landed in England, and Gilbert was one of a small number who escaped that massacre. He was the restorer of Bardney abbey in Lincolnshire. He died about 1094, and was buried at Bardney. Of his sons, Gilbert died without issue during the lifetime of his father. Hugh succeeded to his mother's estates in Normandy and took Montfort as his surname. He married Adeline, sister of Waleran, Count of Meulen. Walter became ancestor of the earls of Lincoln. He succeeded to all his father's English possessions, and married Maud, daughter of Stephen, Count of Brittany.
